We are one of the few organizations applying Social Role Valorisation (SRV) principles in India which emphasizes on importance of enabling marginalized groups, such as people with disabilities, to participate fully in society and assume valued social roles.

Ashish Foundation for the Differently Abled (AFDA) Charitable Trust, is a non-profit organization in Dwarka, west Delhi. We were established in 2007 to serve children and adults with autism and other developmental disabilities.

About Us

We are dedicated to providing a comprehensive education that prepares students to enjoy the “Good things in life” like their typical peers.

We strive to create a welcoming student-centred environment where all students can grow, mature and succeed.

VISION

Empowering children and adults with autism to rise to their God given potential in inclusive communities

Programs

Ashish Centre (3 - 17 years)

- An early intervention center with 1:4 teacher-to-student ratio
- Multiple therapies to help students with autism and developmental disabilities reach their full potential

Ankur -Vocational Centre (above 18 years)

- A vocational and life skills program
- Job skills are developed and sharpened, suited for their natural talents for routine, memory, and organization
- Customized Employment Programme (CEP) - where we DISCOVER the interests, skills, strengths, and abilities of interns and combine all of these with the requirements of different companies and match them for job placements

Advay Trainings

Training families, professionals, practitioners, community members to grow in their engagement with people with autism and other disabilities. Most of the trainings are based on the ideas of Social Role Valorization (SRV)
